Managing Director Rosemount Appointment

Treasury Wine Estates Limited is pleased to announce the appointment of Angus McPherson to the role of Managing Director Rosemount.

The role will report directly to Treasury Wine Estates CEO, David Dearie and the appointment represents an important step in the implementation of the recently announced move towards a new global organisation structure. The new structure will see five new Brand Managing Director positions and a new Chief Supply Officer position created on the Treasury Wine Estates Executive Leadership team to complement the already existing regional and corporate structure.

Angus brings to Treasury Wine Estates more than ten years of international experience in the global wine industry, having worked with Casella Wines and Brown-Forman, where he held a variety of senior leadership roles. His most recent position was Export Sales Manager for Casella Wines.

Angus will be responsible for setting and driving the strategic direction of the Rosemount Brand Business Unit, with a clear focus on profitable growth and the development of Rosemount along with the regional champions and tactical brands in his Business Unit.

Treasury Wine Estates CEO, David Dearie said:

“We’re delighted to have Angus join our team. His extensive international experience will prove invaluable in enabling him to lead his brands’ global positioning. The new structure is going to enable us to allocate our resources to growth opportunities that optimise the returns for our business as a whole.”

Angus will commence in the role on 1 October 2011.
